14 TO REMEMBER AND HONOR THE LEGACY OF
15 MATTIE WHYTE WOODRIDGE FOR HER ROLE IN
16 CREATING TEACHER APPRECIATION WEEK.

17
19 WHEREAS, while celebrating Black History Month, students, parents, and 20 the community at large should recognize the crucial work of teachers
21 throughout the year, and it is important to set aside a week for the sole
22 purpose of celebrating Teacher appreciation Week;

23
24 WHEREAS, Teacher Appreciation Week has become an established tradition
25 in school districts throughout the United States, but few people seem to know
26 how it started;

27
28 WHEREAS, the idea for Teacher Appreciation Week came from a teacher in 29 Arkansas who was an African-American woman who taught at a school in the 30 segregated South;

31
32 WHEREAS, during the early 1940s, Mattie Whyte Woodridge, an Arkansas
33 teacher, decided that educators should be recognized for the contributions
34 they make to society, and made this one of her missions;

35
36 WHEREAS, Ms. Woodridge wrote to every governor in the United States and

1 corresponded with a host of politicians and leaders in education, stressing
2 the need for a national day to honor teachers;

3
4 WHEREAS, in 1944, one (1) of the many letters she wrote was read by
5 First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt;

6
7 WHEREAS, Mrs. Roosevelt acted upon that letter, asking the Eighty-First
8 United States Congress to consider setting aside one (1) day per year to 9 acknowledge and honor the work of teachers;

10
11 WHEREAS, in addition to the efforts of Ms. Woodridge, the National
12 Education Association, joined by its state affiliates in Kansas and Indiana,
13 worked tirelessly to help make Ms. Woodridge's suggestion a reality and 14 lobbied the United States Congress to create a day for the nation to 15 celebrate teachers;

16
17 WHEREAS, Ms. Woodridge gradually saw her plan to honor the work of 18 teachers materialize as she continued to work as an educator in the Arkansas
19 Delta, eventually serving as principal of Northend Elementary School in 20 Helena, Arkansas, in the 1950s;

21
22 WHEREAS, although Ms. Woodridge's idea worked its way through the 23 United States Congress for decades, she lived to see it come to fruition;

24
25 WHEREAS, the United States Congress initially declared March 7, 1980,
26 as "National Teacher Day", but only for that particular year;

27
28 WHEREAS, a growing movement to make National Teacher Day an annual 29 event had already taken root, and people throughout the country continued to 30 celebrate it;

31
32 WHEREAS, for several more years, the National Education Association and
33 its affiliates observed National Teacher Day on the first Tuesday of March,
34 and in 1985, the National Education Association Representative Assembly voted
35 to officially designate March 1 as National Teacher Day;

36

1 WHEREAS, the National Parent Teacher Association was also eager to make
2 the day of recognition official, and took steps to designate the first full
3 week of May as Teacher appreciation Week;

4
5 WHEREAS, each year, the first full week of May would be designated as
6 Teacher Appreciation Week;

7
8 WHEREAS, when Teacher Appreciation Week was established in May 1999,
9 Representative Rush Holt, a congressman from New Jersey, delivered a touching
10 speech as he discussed National Teacher Day before the One Hundred Sixth
11 United States Congress, providing in part, "As a teacher myself, I know that
12 teaching is a hard and sometimes unrecognized job. But of all the important
13 jobs in our society, nothing makes more of an impact on our children than a
14 well trained, caring, and dedicated teacher. No job ultimately is more
15 important to our society";

16
17 WHEREAS, on August 14, 1999, just three (3) months after Representative
18 Rush Holt gave his speech, Mattie Whyte Woodridge died at ninety (90) years
19 of age;

20
21 WHEREAS, although details of Mattie Whyte Woodridge's important
22 lifelong mission are sparse, her patience and diligence led to the permanent 23 establishment of an annual event that continues to make educators and
24 students smile year after year;

25
26 WHEREAS, Mattie Whyte Woodridge does not have her own Wikipedia page,
27 nor is she profiled in many history-based publications. In fact, her name is
28 rarely mentioned, even among all of the festivities that Teacher Appreciation
29 Week brings each year;

30
31 WHEREAS, as we honor our teachers, we should also remember and honor
32 the legacy of Mattie Whyte Woodridge,

33
34 NOW THEREFORE,

35 BE IT RESOLVED BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE NINETY-THIRD GENERAL
36 ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS:
