If a student chooses to follow a career pathway created by the state work force development council, the bill requires a student's individual career and academic plan (ICAP) to include the student's progress in completing the courses and other learning experiences outlined in the pathway. In assisting a student and his or her parent in creating the ICAP, the public school must explain to the student and parent the various career pathways and the types of certificates and jobs to which the pathways lead and discuss the skills and educational opportunities available through military enlistment.
