ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

CED/YMI PROGRAM DIRECTOR 2005-2015

- To reverse the trend of recidivism, founded the inmate organization entitled Community Economic Development (CED), later renamed Young Men Incorporated (YMI)/Leadership Training Academy (LTA)
- CED, YMI/LTA is predicated on the belief that greater public safety is achieved when inmates are adequately prepared to fully re-integrate back to their communities. The program teaches them to develop productive relationships and personal stakes in their communities and provides them with the tools and education necessary to increase economic development, growth, and empowerment.
- Recruited participants, many of whom became instructors.
- Instructed classes in public speaking, grant writing non-profit management and executive management
- Produced re-entry networking events involving distinguished guest speakers.
- Conducted various community charity events and victim impact programs.
- Graduated over 1200 incarcerated citizens, helped over 180 find employment, with several opening their own businesses upon release.

Washington, DC to deliver my transformational process and how BOP were role models and ways their actions can play a significant role in changing lives.

- Visited over 30 federal prisons to act as a catalyst for change. As an incredible messenger, I motivate incarcerated citizen by using the successful peer approach such as other social service interventions. Every institution reported a significant increase in program participation
- Piloted the organization, I founded, Young Men Incorporated (YMI)/Leadership Training Academy (LTA) at the Federal Correctional Institution (FCI) in Cumberland, Maryland. The program 's progress was documented by HBO/Vice and will air soon.
- Provided Executive Management training to incarcerated citizens at FCI Cumberland to enable them to manage my organization. The program/organization is run by highly influential person.
- Created strategies to connect incarcerated citizens to accountability partners within community-based organizations. One method is to invite community leaders to speak at the institution.

MAYOR'S OFFICE OF RETURNING CITIZENS AFFAIRS (MORCA) PROGRAM COORDINATOR

APRIL- NOVEMBER 2016

- Coordinated, managed, and instructed MORCA's Electrician program for at-risk men, age 18-30 years old in the Washington DC ward 8 area. The program consisted of an electrician apprenticeship, job readiness, victim impact, public speaking, entrepreneur training, basic nutrition, and fitness. Created individual development plans for each participant to determine their needs and track their progress
- Recruited individuals to coordinate Safe passage public safety initiative produced by Deputy Mayor's Office to provide supervision and safe passage for children going to or being dismissed from school
- Co-coordinated the Family outreach survey. Fifty families were identified by the Government as "At Risk" for violence and a need f.or social services. Met with families to assess their situation and present them with referrals for public services to obtain food, clothing and housing
- Co-coordinated MORCA's Returning Citizens Family day on July 20, 2016. Event featured a softball game between the DC Metropolitan Police Department and a group of Returning Citizens. Provided social services booths for families of and returning citizens living in or residing at Residential Reentry Centers. Event featured food, music and games. This was an extraordinary achievement given the present anti-police climate

- Conducted all aspects of YMI's growth and operations, including creating liaisons between incarcerated citizens and BOP staff, writing curriculums, recruiting participants, and instructors, establishing the organizational structure, writing policies, facilitating meetings, and running events and programs
- Recruited over 20 business leaders from various communities to establish accountability partners.

SPORTS COMMISSIONER
1995-2004

- Following lengthy shutdowns due to excessive violence, I was asked with reopening and overseeing all sports leagues and events.
- During this period, no violence was associated with any league, an unlikely achievement that stunned prison administrators
- In 2004. lead the negotiation of a truce to end a violent ten-year gang war in Fort Washington, MD. The key was creating a community model of reconciliation based on conflict resolution strategies. Worked through the Alliance of Concerned Men with Walter Ridley (former Director DC DOC), Ebenezer Church Officials, and Maryland District Attorney

- Spoke to at-risk youth participating in the DC Metropolitan Police Department's Stars summer youth program
