

RÉSUMÉ DIGEST

ACT 182 (HB 739)

2018 Regular Session

Gregory Miller

Existing law (R.S. 42:1111–Code of Governmental Ethics) provides, subject to certain exceptions, that no public servant (defined as a public employee or an elected official) shall receive any thing of economic value, other than compensation and benefits from the governmental entity to which he is duly entitled, for the performance of the duties and responsibilities of his office or position. Existing law (R.S. 42:1115(A)) prohibits a public servant from soliciting or accepting any thing of economic value as a gift or gratuity from any person if the public servant knows or should know that such person has or is seeking to obtain a business relationship with the public servant's agency or is seeking to influence the passage or defeat of legislation by the public servant's agency.

Existing law provides an exception for members of the legislature, when making a public speech, to allow the acceptance of food, refreshments, lodging, and transportation reasonably related to making such speech from the sponsoring group or organization, provided the public speech is given in the U.S. or Canada and provided the legislator discloses to the ethics board, within 60 days of making the speech, the name of the sponsoring group or organization and the amount expended on his behalf. Defines "public speech" as a speech, or other oral presentation, including a panel discussion, or radio or television appearance before the public at large, or before any civic, political, religious, educational, or eleemosynary group or organization by a member of the legislature in his capacity as a legislator.

Prior law required the disclosure to the ethics board to be in the form of an affidavit.

New law removes the requirement for an affidavit and provides instead for the filing of a statement that includes a certification by the legislator filing it that the information contained in the statement is true and correct to the best of his knowledge, information, and belief.

Effective August 1, 2018.
