- "Crisis intervention services", consultation, counseling, debriefing, defusing, intervention services, management, harm prevention or referral provided by a critical incident stress management team member to an emergency service provider.
- 8 "Critical incident", an event that results in acute or cumulative psychological stress or 9 trauma to an emergency service provider as a result of the provider's response to the event.
 - "Critical incident stress management", a process of crisis intervention designed to assist emergency service providers in coping with the psychological stress or trauma resulting from a critical incident, consistent with training standards established by the Massachusetts Peer Support Network.

"Critical incident stress management team", a trained volunteer or participant, or a group of trained volunteers or participants, who offers critical incident stress management and crisis intervention services following a critical incident.

"Critical incident stress management team member", an individual trained to provide critical incident stress management and crisis intervention services as a member of an organized and registered team; provided, however, that such individual shall be designated by the colonel of state police, a sheriff or a police chief, fire chief or director of emergency services in a city or town.

"Emergency service provider", a police officer or civilian law enforcement employee including, but not limited to, an emergency dispatcher, sheriff, deputy sheriff, state police officer, employee of the Massachusetts emergency management agency, permanent or volunteer firefighter or permanent or volunteer emergency medical personnel.

(b) A critical incident stress management team member or emergency service provider who provides or receives critical incident stress management and crisis intervention services as a result of a critical incident shall not be required to testify or divulge any information obtained solely through the provision of or receipt of such services. Information divulged to a critical incident stress management team member during the provision of critical incident stress management and crisis intervention services shall be kept confidential and shall not be disclosed to a third party, unless the critical incident stress management team member, based on such information, has reasonable cause to believe that: (i) the emergency service provider or another person is in danger of serious bodily harm or death; (ii) a child is being subjected to or at risk of abuse or neglect; or (iii) the information indicates the existence of a past or present act

36	constituting an intentional tort or crime; provided, however, that the tort or crime would not be
37	barred under the applicable statute of limitations.
