AN ACT relating to mental health; revising provisions relating to a forensic facility to which certain offenders and defendants with a mental illness may be committed; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel’s Digest:

1 Under existing law, if a court finds a defendant incompetent, and dangerous to
2 himself or herself or to society and that commitment is required for a determination
3 of the defendant’s ability to receive treatment and attain competence, the defendant
4 may be committed for detention and treatment at a secure facility of the Division of 5 Public and Behavioral Health of the Department of Health and Human Services.
6 (NRS 178.425) If the court dismisses criminal charges against such a defendant
7 because the court determines that the defendant is incompetent, with no substantial
8 probability of attaining competence in the foreseeable future and the court makes 9 certain other findings related to the defendant’s dangerousness, the court may order
10 the defendant to be committed to a forensic facility of the Division. (NRS 178.461)
11 Existing law also provides that if a defendant is acquitted by reason of insanity,
12 the defendant may be detained in a forensic facility of the Division. (NRS 175.539)
13 This bill revises the definition of a forensic facility in which those defendants may 14 be detained.
