CHAPTER.....

AN ACT relating to peace officers; revising provisions relating to the use of force by peace officers; requiring certain law enforcement agencies to adopt a written policy relating to the use of force; requiring certain law enforcement agencies to submit to the Central Repository for Nevada Records of Criminal History certain information relating to certain incidents involving the use of force by peace officers; requiring the preparation and submittal of a report relating to such information; imposing certain restrictions and requirements regarding the use of restraint chairs; prohibiting peace officers from using certain forms of force under certain circumstances; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law provides that if a defendant who is being arrested flees or forcibly resists, a peace officer may use only the amount of reasonable force necessary to effect the arrest, unless deadly force is authorized under the circumstances. (NRS 171.122) Existing law also provides that a peace officer may, after giving a warning, if feasible, use deadly force to effect the arrest of a person only if there is probable cause to believe that the person: (1) has committed a felony which involves the infliction or threat of serious bodily harm or the use of deadly force; or (2) poses a threat of serious bodily harm to the peace officer or to others. (NRS 171.1455)

Section 2 of this bill requires a peace officer to use de-escalation techniques and alternatives to the use of force whenever possible or appropriate and consistent with the training of the peace officer. If the peace officer uses force, the peace officer must: (1) if it is possible for the peace officer to do so safely, identify himself or herself as a peace officer; and (2) use only the amount of force objectively reasonable to safely accomplish a lawful purpose. Section 2 further requires law enforcement agencies to adopt a written policy on the threat certain persons pose to peace officers or others and include certain information relating to the use of force. Section 1 of this bill makes a conforming change to clarify the circumstances under which a peace officer may use force to effect an arrest.

Section 3.3 of this bill requires: (1) each law enforcement agency to annually make available to the public and to submit monthly to the Central Repository for Nevada Records of Criminal History a report containing certain information relating to incidents involving the use of force; and (2) the Central Repository to make the use-of-force data available to the public on its Internet website. Section 3.3 also requires the Office of the Attorney General to: (1) review the use-of-force data that is publicly available on the Internet website of the Central Repository; (2) prepare a report containing any conclusions or recommendations resulting from its review; and (3) submit its report to the Governor and the Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau each year. Additionally, section 3.3: (1) requires each law enforcement agency to participate in the National Use-of-Force Data Collection of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; and (2) prohibits using the data collected under section 3.3 in any way against a peace officer during any criminal proceeding.

Existing law provides that homicide by a public officer or person acting under the command and in the aid of the public officer is justifiable in protecting against an imminent threat to the life of a person, among other circumstances. (NRS 200.140) Section 3.7 of this bill prohibits a peace officer from using deadly force against a person based on the danger that the person poses to himself or herself, if a reasonable peace officer would believe that the person does not pose an imminent threat of death or serious bodily harm to the peace officer or another person. Section 4.5 of this bill: (1) makes a conforming change to reflect the exception established in section 3.7 for when homicide by a peace officer is not justifiable; and (2) changes the persons who are authorized to assert that a homicide is justifiable to include peace officers and persons acting under the command and in the aid of peace officers, rather than public officers and persons acting under the command and in the aid of public officers.

Existing law prohibits a peace officer from using a choke hold on another person or placing a person who is in the custody of the peace officer in any position which compresses his or her airway or restricts his or her ability to breathe. (NRS 193.350) Section 4 of this bill imposes certain restrictions and requirements regarding the use of a restraint chair. Section 4 also provides that in responding to a protest or demonstration, a peace officer is prohibited from: (1) discharging a kinetic energy projectile indiscriminately into a crowd or in a manner that intentionally targets the head, pelvis or spine or any other vital area of the body of a person unless the person poses an immediate threat of physical harm or death to the peace officer or others; or (2) using a chemical agent without first declaring that the protest or demonstration constitutes an unlawful assembly and providing orders to disperse under certain circumstances, an egress route from the area and reasonable time to disperse.
