Fiscal Impact Summary

This bill creates the new offense of unlawful possession of a telecommunications device by an inmate of the South Carolina Department of Corrections (SCDC). This offense is punishable by a fine of not less than $1,000 nor more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than ten years, or both.

Judicial reports that implementation of the bill may result in an increase in general sessions court caseloads, which can be managed using existing staff and appropriations. Therefore, the bill will result in no expenditure impact for Judicial. Also, the Commission on Prosecution Coordination and Commission on Indigent Defense report that the bill will have no expenditure impact since these agencies will manage any additional responsibilities resulting from the bill with existing staff and resources. Further, SCDC anticipates this bill may modify how long an inmate may be incarcerated. According to SCDC, in FY 2022-23, the annual total cost per inmate was $37,758, $34,570 of which was state funded. However, SCDC anticipates being able to manage any additional expenses within existing appropriations.

This offense is punishable by a fine of not less than $1,000 nor more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than ten years, or both. As such, it has the potential to increase General Fund, Other Funds, and local revenue from an increase in court fines. However, as the total amount of fines that may be levied in a given year is unknown, the impact on the General Fund, Other Funds, and local revenue is undetermined.

This bill specifies that the unlawful possession of a telecommunications device by an inmate applies to county detention centers and jails. The Revenue and Fiscal Affairs Office (RFA) contacted the counties and received a response from Dorchester, Horry, and Richland. Based on the responses received, this bill will have no expenditure impact on counties.

This fiscal impact statement has been updated to address the local expenditure impact.
