1ST SESSION

H. R. 5024

To require the USAID Youth Coordinator, in their role as defined by the USAID Youth Policy, to coordinate cross-sectoral international development efforts related to youth, inclusive of youth, peace, and security, and for other purposes.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

JULY 27, 2023

Ms. MENG (for herself, Mr. FITZPATRICK, Mr. PHILLIPS, Mr. LAWLER, Ms. KAMLAGER-DOVE, and Ms. SALAZAR) introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs

A BILL

To require the USAID Youth Coordinator, in their role as defined by the USAID Youth Policy, to coordinate cross-sectoral international development efforts related to youth, inclusive of youth, peace, and security, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Youth, Peace, and Se-5 curity Act of 2023”.

6 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

7 Congress makes the following findings:

1 (1) As of 2023, there are an estimated 2.4 bil-
2 lion people in the world between the ages of 10–29 3 years of age, which represents the largest number of 4 young people to have existed in human history, with 5 90 percent of youth (ages 15–24) in developing 6 countries, and 1 out of every 4 young people directly 7 affected by conflict, violence, and crisis.

8 (2) More than 1 billion children and youth are 9 exposed to violence each year. Failure to properly 10 address adversity experienced during childhood (ages 11 0–17) and youth (ages 10–29) can lead to lifelong 12 deficiencies and compromises future opportunities
13 for individual, community, and national develop-14 ment.

15 (3) The majority of the population in many 16 conflict-affected countries is younger than 20 years
17 of age, with some countries having more than 70
18 percent of the population who are younger than 30 19 years of age.

20 (4) Only 2.2 percent of parliamentarians are 21 under 30, and less than 1 percent are young women.
22 Youth therefore remain underrepresented around the 23 world in peacebuilding, political decision-making 24 processes, conflict prevention, management, and res-
25 olution, and post-conflict resolution relief and recov-

1 ery efforts. As a consequence, youth may turn from 2 institutional politics as they feel their governments 3 are not addressing critical issues they care about.

4 (5) When we fail to effectively engage youth, it
5 can lead to violence, instability, unrest, and irregular
6 and forced migration. For example, Sub-Saharan Af-
7 rica hosts more than 26 percent of the world's 52
8 million refugees and internally displaced persons 9 (IDPs), of which approximately 50 percent are 10 youth. In Latin America and the Caribbean there 11 are 6.3 million migrants that are under 18 years old, 12 and most migrants from this region come from frag-
13 ile states with economic and political instability, 14 where youth can be the deliberate targets of vio-
15 lence.

16 (6) Adverse climate impacts, increased food in-17 security and malnutrition, rising debt, growing in-18 equality, price shocks and inflation, democratic re-19 cession, and the continued impacts of COVID on 20 service delivery contribute to the instability of com-21 munities, disproportionately impacting the economic, 22 educational, and security prospects of youth, and 23 their mental health and wellbeing.

24 (7) Digital transformation has dramatically
25 changed industries, governments, economies, and so-

1 cieties. Digital ecosystems, consisting of stake-
2 holders, systems, and enabling environments, can 3 empower people and communities to use digital tech-4 nology to access services, engage with others, and 5 pursue economic opportunities in partner countries.
6 Digital ecosystems also come with risks of increasing 7 inequality, repression, and instability.
8 Unsurprisingly, the rise of digital technology has 9 had a profound impact on young people, raising new 10 opportunities and challenges alike for youth, peace 11 and security, from youth mental health and 12 wellbeing to online recruitment and mobilization to 13 online peacebuilding movements.

14 (8) Youth and youth-led groups and movements 15 have demonstrated the capacity of young people to 16 play critical roles in calling for reform through, for 17 example, nonviolent action and peaceful protests to 18 hold governments accountable and attempt to de-19 crease or prevent authoritarianism in their countries, 20 by serving as a bridge between traditional commu-
21 nity values and cultural globalization, and by build-22 ing diverse coalitions that advance more peaceful 23 and democratic outcomes for their communities and 24 countries, including—

1 (A) deescalating destructive conflict and 2 helping prevent the spread of conflict;

3 (B) discouraging anti-social youth mobili-
4 zation among peers;

5 (C) preventing recurring cycles of violence;

6 (D) encouraging defection from armed 7 groups and social reintegration of ex-combat-8 ants;

9 (E) improving the effectiveness and sus-
10 tainability of peace and political processes;

11 (F) improving social cohesion between and 12 among groups, peers, and associates;

13 (G) building resilience to violence and re-
14 cruitment;

15 (H) helping to identify and improve liveli-16 hood options for youth and their families, and 17 communities impacted by crisis and conflict; 18 and

19 (I) contributing to improved and more in-20 clusive democracy and governance.

21 (9) Youth are critical actors and partners in de-22 velopment at all levels of society. The meaningful in-23 clusion of youth in the design and delivery of 24 projects and strategies, including those focused on

1 youth, peace and security, can contribute to better
2 and more sustainable outcomes.

3 (10) Preventive, resilience-based, and cross-cut-4 ting youth-inclusive approaches are more effective at 5 reducing physical and psychological violence than 6 hard security responses and at-risk and remedial ap-7 proaches, which are often counterproductive.

8 (11) Youth who have participated in United 9 States-supported civic engagement and development
10 programs are less likely to participate in or support 11 political violence.

12 (12) Youth participation in the design and im-13 plementation of community development strategies is 14 critical for effectively reducing violence and extre-
15 mism, and increasing young peoples' education, eco-16 nomic opportunity and empowerment, civic engage-17 ment, and positive health outcomes, which can con-18 tribute to peace and stability.

19 (13) Young people around the world, particu-20 larly adolescent girls and members of the 21 LGBTQI+ community, but also young men and 22 boys, are disproportionately affected by all forms of 23 violence. This includes, but is not limited to, risks 24 associated with technology facilitated violence, such 25 as intimidation, harassment, exploitation, abuse,

1 trafficking, misinformation, disinformation,
2 malinformation, data tracking, and other threats, 3 which warrant increased attention. Such risks also 4 inhibit young peoples' ability to participate in digital 5 networks, democracy rights and governance and 6 peacebuilding movements.

7 (14) A study by PLAN International, which 8 surveyed girls in 22 countries, found that—

9 (A) 58 percent of respondents reported
10 that they had personally experienced some form 11 of online harassment on social media platforms;

12 (B) activists attracted particular vitriol 13 and attention; and

14 (C) 47 percent of respondents reported
15 that they had been attacked for their opinions.

16 (15) The shrinking of global civic spaces facing 17 youth, as documented in the United Nations Office
18 of the Secretary-General's Envoy on Youth's report,
19 "If I Disappear", shows the complexity of the grave
20 threats, challenges, and barriers against diverse 21 groups of youth active in the civic space, taking the 22 forms of sociocultural, financial, political, legal, dig-23 ital, and physical. Shrinking civic and political 24 spaces challenge the ability of youth to contribute to 25 society effectively and meaningfully, often resulting

1 in declining trust in government institutions among 2 youth, leading to youth directing social, civic, and 3 political participation to informal channels.

4 (16) Many national and international mecha-
5 nisms for the protection of human rights defenders, 6 peacebuilders, and humanitarians usually apply to 7 adults (individuals over the age of 29) excluding 8 youth (age 29 and younger) due to their age.

9 (17) United Nations Security Council Resolu-
10 tion 2250 on Youth, Peace, and Security, which was 11 adopted on December 9, 2015, formalized an inter-12 national framework to address the role of youth in 13 building and sustaining peace and preventing con-14 flict.

15 (18) United Nations Security Council Resolu-
16 tion 2419 on Youth, Peace, and Security, which was 17 adopted on June 6, 2018, calls for increasing and 18 formalizing the role of youth in negotiating and im-19 plementing peace agreements.

20 (19) United Nations Security Council Resolu-
21 tion 2535 on Youth, Peace, and Security, which was 22 adopted on July 14, 2020, advocates for the in-23 creased protection of youth peacebuilders at risk of 24 violence, creates a two-year reporting mechanism on 25 Youth, Peace, and Security, and recognizes the crit-

1 ical role of youth in mitigating humanitarian crises,
2 such as COVID–19.

3 SEC. 3. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

4 It is the sense of Congress that the United States 5 Government should, consistent with the priorities of 6 USAID’s 2022 Youth In Development Policy—

7 (1) apply Do No Harm principles, while recog-8 nizing that engaging young people as partners in 9 peacebuilding and humanitarian activities is critical 10 in fragile environments;

11 (2) promote the meaningful and inclusive en-
12 gagement of youth in peacebuilding and conflict pre-13 vention, management, and resolution, as well as 14 post-conflict relief and recovery efforts and proc-
15 esses, reinforced through diplomatic efforts and pro-16 grams;

17 (3) provide assistance to and build the capacity
18 of youth-led organizations dedicated to advancing 19 peace and review administrative and bureaucratic 20 impediments to achieving this aim;

21 (4) build on new learning and existing United 22 States Government strategies addressing youth,
23 peace, and security, including the Women, Peace 24 and Security Act of 2017 (Public Law 115–68) and

1 the Action Plan developed pursuant to section 8, to 2 ensure that—

3 (A) there is meaningful, inclusive and equi-
4 table participation of diverse youth in decision 5 making at all levels;

6 (B) such decision making is designed and 7 assessed in consultation with youth representing 8 diverse identities and situations, including 9 youth from marginalized and underrepresented
10 groups, including young women and girls,
11 LGBTQI+ youth, indigenous youth, and youth
12 with disabilities;

13 (C) ensure that the voices, experiences, 14 and perspectives of local youth are heard and 15 valued, and create accessible platforms for dia-16 logue and participatory processes that allow 17 them to contribute to decision making, peace 18 negotiations, and policy development at the 19 local and municipal levels; and

20 (D) recognize that youth, including young 21 women and girls, are not a homogenous group 22 and have diverse experiences and perspectives,
23 and ensure inclusivity by engaging and incor-24 porating the perspectives of marginalized and 25 underrepresented youth, girls, and young

1 women, including those from minority commu-
2 nities, indigenous backgrounds, and rural areas;
3 (5) integrate youth outreach and engagement
4 into relevant conflict-resolution, leadership, democ-
5 racy, and governance programs supported by the 6 United States Government; and 7 (6) include policies that are specific to boys and 8 girls at various ages and programming in the design, 9 implementation, and evaluation of relevant United 10 States foreign assistance programs.

11 SEC. 4. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

13 the inclusive and meaningful participation of youth in 14 peacebuilding and conflict prevention, management, and 15 resolution, and post-conflict relief and recovery efforts, re-
16 inforced through diplomatic efforts and assistance pro-17 grams that—

18 (1) elevate and incorporate the perspectives and 19 interests of affected youth into conflict-prevention, 20 violence-reduction, and post-conflict peacebuilding 21 activities and strategies;

22 (2) increase meaningful and inclusive youth en-23 gagement in program planning and policy develop-

15 formal settings, increase youth civic and political

19 (7) encourage partner governments to adopt
20 plans to increase meaningful and inclusive youth en-
21 gagement in peace and security processes and deci-
22 sion-making institutions;

23 (8) recognize the unique context underrep-24 resented and marginalized youth, including girls and 25 young women, experience in conflict and violence

1 settings by adjusting programs and policies that per-2 tain to the achievement of the strategy and policy
3 goals of this Act—

4 (A) to protect youth population that are

6 women, and to ensure their online and offline
7 safety, security, and dignity;

17 youth in these processes and efforts;

18 (9) recognize the unique challenges facing youth 19 affected by conflict and violence in the areas of—

20 (A) trauma, psychosocial, and mental 21 health issues;

22 (B) stigma and other challenges with com-
23 munity reintegration after conflict or gang asso-
24 ciation, such as access to education, training,

1 and economic opportunity, and a lack of access 2 to related services; and

3 (C) a lack of access to education, training,

20 gency assistance, and technical assistance to eligible 21 youth-led civil society organizations and youth

24 (2) improved economic security;
25 (3) community violence intervention;

1 (4) conflict and crisis management;

2 (5) conflict resolution and people-to-people rec-
3 onciliation;

4 (6) post-conflict relief recovery, and rebuilding
5 efforts;

6 (7) assistance for individuals facing immediate 7 legal and safety concerns due to their participation

11 development approach.

12 (b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There
13 are authorized to be appropriated $5,500,000 to carry out 14 this section. Amounts appropriated pursuant to the au-15 thorization of appropriations under this subsection may be 16 referred to as the “Youth, Peace and Security Fund”.

17 SEC. 9. DEFINITIONS.

18 In this Act:

19 (1) CONFLICT.—The term “conflict” in this Act 20 is understood as an inevitable aspect of human 21 interaction, and present when two or more individ-22 uals or groups pursue mutually incompatible goals.
23 “Conflict” is a continuum. When channeled con-24 structively into processes of resolution, conflict can

1 be beneficial; however, conflict can also be waged 2 violently, as in war.

3 (2) CONFLICT PREVENTION.—The term “con-
4 flict prevention” is understood as deliberate efforts 5 to disrupt likely pathways to the outbreak, esca-6 lation, or recurrence of violent conflict and promote 7 peaceful, resilient communities.

8 (3) DO NO HARM.—The term “Do No Harm”
9 refers to taking measures that ensure our efforts
10 and interventions do not put any individual or group 11 at increased risk of harm. As the legal, political, and 12 social context for diverse youth is challenging in 13 most countries where youth, peace, and security ac-14 tivities occur, our engagement with youth and their 15 communities should be done thoughtfully as it can 16 raise their visibility and potentially put them at risk.

17 (4) INCLUSIVE DEVELOPMENT.—The term “in-18 clusive development” is understood to mean the con-19 cept that every person, regardless of their identity, 20 is instrumental in transforming their societies. De-21 velopment processes that are inclusive yield better 22 outcomes for the communities that embark upon 23 them.

24 (5) MEANINGFUL YOUTH ENGAGEMENT.—The 25 term “meaningful youth engagement” is defined as

1 an inclusive, intentional, mutually respectful part-2 nership between youth and adults whereby power is 3 shared and respective contributions, including young 4 people’s ideas, leadership, perspectives, skills, and 5 strengths, are valued.

6 (6) PEACEBUILDING.—The term
7 “peacebuilding” is understood as a range of efforts 8 at the community, national, and international levels 9 to address the immediate impacts and root causes of 10 conflict and violence before, during, and after it oc-11 curs.

12 (7) RESILIENCE.—The term “resilience” in this 13 Act is understood as the ability of people, house-
14 holds, communities, countries, and systems to miti-15 gate, adapt to, and recover from shocks and stresses 16 in a manner that reduces chronic vulnerability and 17 facilitates inclusive growth. In conflict and violence 18 prevention, resilience often refers to protective struc-19 tures (personal, group, institutional) that buffer in-20 dividuals from the effects of adverse experiences.

21 (8) VIOLENCE.—The term “violence” in this 22 Act is understood as the intentional use of physical 23 force or power, threatened or actual, against another 24 person or against a group or community that results

1 in or has a high likelihood of resulting in injury, 2 death, or psychological harm.

3 (9) VULNERABLE.—The term “vulnerable 4 youth”, “vulnerable populations”, or other such 5 iterations referred in this Act means a group of peo-6 ple are vulnerable to situations or conditions, such 7 as those situations and conditions presented during 8 conflicts or instability. It is not meant to define any 9 group as having vulnerability as inherent to their 10 identity.
