A BILL

To require the Secretary of Labor to monitor the trade deficits between the United States and other countries, and for other purposes.

1       *Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,*

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4       This Act may be cited as the “Trade Deficit Reduc-5 tion Act”.

6 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

7       Congress finds the following:

8             (1) The United States has become the world’s 9             largest net debtor nation, having run up massive 10            trade deficits since the mid-1970s.

1                   (2) Every year since 1976, whether in expansion
2                   or recession, the U.S. has run a deficit in goods
3                   and services trade, which weakens and detracts from 4                   America's global leadership position.

5                   (3) The United States trade deficit in 1993, the 6                   year before the North American Free Trade Agree-7                   ment (NAFTA) went into force, was 8                   $70,000,000,000.

9                   (4) The United States ran a $500,000,000,000
10                  deficit in the balance of trade in goods and services 11                  in 2015.

12                  (5) In 2015, the United States had a trade def-13                  icit of $64 billion with countries with which it has 14                  free trade agreements.

15                  (6) Persistent deficits weaken America's econ-
16                  omy, defense industrial base, and innovation system
17                  and increase the likelihood of ownership of large seg-
18                  ments of the U.S. economy by foreign interests.

19 SEC. 3. TRADE DEFICIT REDUCTION PLANS AND REPORTS.

20                  (a) IN GENERAL.—

21                  (1) Not later than 60 days after the date of en-22                  actment of this Act, and annually thereafter, the 23                  Secretary of Labor shall identify each country for 24                  which the following apply:

1                         (A) The value of goods and services im-
2                         ported into the United States exceeded—

3                                     (i) the amount that is twice the value
4                         of goods and services that are exported
5                         from the United States to that country; or 6                                     (ii) $100,000,000,000.

7                         (B) The value of goods and services im-
8                         ported into and exported from the United 9                         States exceeded $1,000,000,000.

10                         (2) SOURCE OF DATA.—For purposes of this 11                         subsection, the Secretary of Labor shall use the 12                         most recently available annual goods and services
13                         trade deficit data compiled by the United States
14                         Census Bureau.

15                         (b) TRADE DEFICIT REDUCTION PLANS.—With re-
16                         spect to countries identified under subsection (a), the Sec-

19                         meeting of the Trade Policy Review Group to develop 20                         plans of action to reduce the United States trade deficit 21                         with those countries, which shall include—

22                                     (1) the factors contributing to the trade deficits
23                         between the United States and such countries, in-

6                         (D) environmental standards;
7                         (E) whether the country violates its World
8                         Trade Organization obligations forbidding it
9                         from requiring U.S. companies to transfer tech-10                         nology as a condition of market access or na-11                         tional treatment; and 12                         (F) whether the country intervenes in cur-
13                         rency markets to gain an unfair competitive ad-14                         vantage in trade;
- 15                         (2) the steps that will be taken to address the 16                         factors identified in subsection (b)(1), which shall 17                         not be limited to trade actions but shall, as appro-18                         priate, include tax, investment, technology, corporate 19                         governance, workforce training, or other policy ac-

21                         icit; and
- 22                         (3) as appropriate, recommendations for meas-
23                         ures that may be taken by the individual States to
