1 SEC. 3. RECOGNITION OF THE COMMUNITIES THAT SUP-

2 PORTED AND DEFENDED THE UNITED

3 STATES ARMED FORCES IN SOUTHEAST ASIA.

4 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

5 (1) During the conflict in Southeast Asia during 6 the 1960s and 1970s, many Hmong, Cham,
7 Cambodians, Iu Mien, Khmu, Lao, Montagnard, and 8 Vietnamese people—

9 (A) supported the Armed Forces;

10 (B) rescued United States pilots shot down
11 in enemy-controlled territory and returned the 12 pilots to safety;13 (C) gathered and provided intelligence to 14 the Armed Forces about enemy troop positions, 15 movement, and strength; and16 (D) provided food, shelter, and support to 17 members of the Armed Forces.

18 (2) The national armed forces of Cambodia facilitated the evacuation of the United States Embassy in Phnom Penh on April 12, 1975, by fighting Khmer Rouge forces that advanced upon the capital.

19 (3) A tragic legacy of this conflict in Southeast
20 Asia is the lethal risk posed by landmines,
21 unexploded ordnance, and explosive remnants of war
22 in Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia that still litter forests, rice fields, villages, school grounds, roads, and

1 other populated areas, which hinders development
2 and efforts to reduce poverty.

3 (4) Vietnam remains one of the world's most 4 contaminated countries, with an estimated 800,000
5 tons of UXO left over from the conflict in Southeast
6 Asia that ended more than 40 years ago. Since 7 1975, UXO accidents have caused more than 8 105,000 casualties, including more than 38,000
9 deaths of Vietnamese civilians.

10 (5) In Laos, much of the country's land re-
11 mains contaminated with tens of millions of small, 12 unexploded cluster munitions. Since 1964, UXO and 13 other explosive remnants of war have injured or 14 killed more than 50,000 civilians in Laos.

15 (6) Cambodia has experienced one of the high-
16 est rates of landmine and UXO casualties in the 17 world. Since 1979, more than 64,000 Cambodians
18 have been injured or killed by landmines, UXO, or 19 other explosive remnants of war.

20 (7) The United States is the world's leading fi-
21 nancial supporter of demining and programs to re-
22 move UXO. Since 1993, the United States has pro-
23 vided more than $4,200,000,000 in assistance for lo-
24 cating and destroying UXO and other explosive rem-
25 nants of war and related programs in more than 100

1 countries, including more than $185,000,000 in 2 Vietnam, $310,000,000 in Laos, and $180,000,000
3 in Cambodia.
