Local Government

UCA 36-12-13(2)(c)

To the extent that counties levy increased property taxes for animal welfare services, enactment of this legislation could result in increased property tax collections beginning in calendar year 2023. If all counties were to levy the maximum permissible rate in this legislation, annual collections could increase by approximately $316 million in aggregate; if all counties were to levy a rate proportional to their approximate current outlay on animal welfare services, annual collections could increase by approximately $19 million in aggregate.

Individuals & Businesses

UCA 36-12-13(2)(c)

To the extent that counties levy increased property taxes for animal welfare services, enactment of this legislation could result in increased property tax burdens for businesses and individuals, beginning in calendar year 2023. If all counties were to levy the maximum permissible rate in this legislation, aggregate property tax burden for businesses and individuals could increase by approximately $316 million annually; if all counties were to levy a rate proportional to their approximate current outlay on animal welfare services, aggregate property tax burden for businesses and individuals could increase by approximately $19 million annually.

Regulatory Impact

UCA 36-12-13(2)(d)

Enactment of this legislation likely will not change the regulatory burden for Utah residents or businesses.

No performance note required for this bill

Notes on Notes

Fiscal notes estimate the direct costs or revenues of enacting a bill. The Legislature uses them to balance the budget. They do not measure a bill's benefits or non-fiscal impacts like opportunity costs, wait times, or inconvenience. A fiscal note is not an appropriation. The Legislature decides appropriations separately.
