WHEREAS, all citizens of the United States possess the basic human right to preserve personal dignity;

WHEREAS, all citizens of the United States deserve the investment of every possible

28 resource to ensure their lasting physical, mental, and emotional well-being;

29 WHEREAS, the diagnosis now known as post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) was 30 first defined by the American Psychiatric Association in 1980 to commonly and more
31 accurately understand and treat veterans who had endured severe operational combat stress;

33 illness caused by a pre-existing flaw of character or ability;

34 WHEREAS, the word "disorder" carries a stigma that perpetuates this misconception;

35 WHEREAS, post-traumatic stress injury (PTSI) may occur following exposure to 36 extremely traumatic events including interpersonal violence, combat, life-threatening accidents,
37 or natural disasters;

38 WHEREAS, PTSI is a very common injury to the brain that is treatable and repairable;

39 WHEREAS, referring to the complications from combat operational stress as a disorder
40 perpetuates the stigma of, and bias against, mental illness;

41 WHEREAS, this stigma can discourage the injured from seeking proper and timely
42 medical treatment;

43 WHEREAS, making PTSI less stigmatizing and more honorable can favorably
44 influence those affected and encourage them to seek treatment without fear of retribution or 45 shame;

46 WHEREAS, proper and timely treatment can diminish suicide rates among the injured;

47 WHEREAS, all citizens suffering from PTSI deserve our compassion and
