Background:

Death with Dignity Act.

This analysis was prepared by non-partisan legislative staff for the use of legislative members in their deliberations. This analysis is not part of the legislation nor does it constitute a statement of legislative intent.

The Death with Dignity Act (Act) allows a qualified patient with a terminal illness with six months or less to live to request medication that the patient may self-administer to end his or her life. A qualified patient must meet the following requirements:

- be a competent adult and a resident of Washington;
- the attending physician and a consulting physician have determined that the patient suffers from a terminal disease and the patient has voluntarily expressed the wish to die;
- the patient has made a request for medication on a form provided in statute; and
- the form is signed and dated by the patient and at least two witnesses who attest to their belief that the patient is competent, acting voluntarily, and not being coerced to sign the request.

The health care providers authorized to perform the duties of the Act are physicians or osteopathic physicians. The patient's attending physician is responsible for determining that the patient has a terminal condition, is competent, is making an informed decision, and is voluntarily making the request. These determinations must be confirmed by a consulting physician. If either physician determines that the patient may have a psychiatric or psychological disorder or depression that impairs the patient's judgment, the patient must be referred for counseling with a psychiatrist or psychologist.

Under the Act, to receive the medication to end his or her life, the patient must make an oral request and a written request to an attending physician, followed by a subsequent second oral request. A waiting period of 15 days is required between the time of the first oral request and the second request. At least 48 hours must pass between the patient's written request and the writing of the prescription. The patient can rescind the request at any time.

The attending physician must deliver the prescription for the medication to a pharmacist either personally or by mail or fax. A pharmacy is prohibited from dispensing medication by mail or courier.

The Act requires the Department of Health (DOH) to collect and report on certain information about participation in the Act.

Health care providers are not required to participate in the provisions of the Act, and health care providers may prohibit others from participating on their premises. Health care providers may sanction other health care providers for participating, unless the participation occurs outside of the course of employment or involves a provider with independent contractor status. Physicians and other health care providers who participate in good faith may not be subject to criminal or civil liability or professional disciplinary action.

Access to Care Policies.

Hospitals must submit to the DOH their policies related to access to care regarding admissions, nondiscrimination, and reproductive health care, along with a form that provides the public with specific information about which reproductive health care services are and are not performed at each hospital. Submitted policies and the form must be posted on the hospital's website.

Summary of Bill:

The health care providers authorized to perform the duties of the Death with Dignity Act (Act) are expanded to include advanced registered nurse practitioners and physician assistants. Authorized healthcare providers are defined as "qualified medical providers." Patients may select the attending or consulting health care provider of their choosing, as long as a physician or osteopathic physician serves in one of the roles. The attending and consulting qualified medical providers chosen by the patient may not have a supervisory relationship with each other.

A prescription from an attending qualified medical provider may be submitted to a pharmacist electronically and the prohibition on dispensing medications by mail or courier is eliminated. Medications may be delivered by personal delivery, messenger service, or the United States Postal Service or a similar private parcel delivery entity. The addressee or an authorized person must sign for the medications upon receipt.

In the event either an attending or consulting qualified medical provider refers the patient to counseling, the types of providers who may provide counseling to patients under the Act are expanded to include independent clinical social workers, advanced social workers, mental health counselors, and psychiatric advanced registered nurse practitioners.

The timeframe in which a qualified patient must wait to make a second oral request is reduced from 15 days to seven days. If at the time of the initial oral request an attending qualified medical provider determines that a qualified patient is either not expected to survive for seven days or is experiencing intractable suffering, the patient may receive the prescription upon making a second request sooner than seven days. Intractable suffering is defined as pain or other physical symptoms related to a person's terminal disease that cannot be reasonably managed by palliative care. The 48-hour waiting period between the written request and the writing of a prescription is removed. Transfer of care or medical records does not restart a waiting period.

In addition to filing by mail, the prescribing qualified medical provider may file all required documentation with the Department of Health (DOH) by fax or email no later than 30 days after the death of the patient.

An employing health care provider may not contractually prohibit an employee health care provider from participating in the Act while outside of the employment relationship and not on the employing health care provider's premises or on property that is owned by, leased by, or under the direct control of the employing health care provider. A health care provider who does participate in the Act outside the course and scope of an employment relationship with a health care provider who prohibits participation is required to be at a location not on the employer's premises or on property that is owned by, leased by, or under the direct control of the employing health care provider.

Hospitals must submit policies related to end-of-life care and the Act to the DOH. By November 1, 2023, the DOH is required to develop an additional form for hospitals to submit which must provide the public with information about which end of life services are and are not available at each hospital.

Hospices must submit to the DOH and the Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) their policies related to end-of-life care and include information for the public about which end of life services are and are not available at each hospice. A copy of the policies must be posted to the hospice's website and the DSHS website. A hospice must submit changes to any of the policies to the DOH and the DSHS within 30 days of the hospice's approval of the change.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Requested on January 16, 2023.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed.
