1 AN ACT Relating to recognizing contributions of Americans of 2 Chinese descent; adding a new section to chapter 43.117 RCW; and 3 creating a new section.

4 BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON:

5 NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature intends to designate a 6 time of year to formally remember and recognize the contributions of 7 Chinese Americans and finds that January of each year is a relevant 8 and appropriate time for such recognition. The legislature finds that 9 the California gold rush began on January 24, 1848, which brought 10 thousands of people to the area, approximately 30 percent of whom 11 were Chinese immigrants. With the immigration to the west as a result 12 of the gold rush, Washington became home to many Chinese immigrants.
13 Chinese immigrants contributed greatly to Washington's economy as 14 miners and workers in the salmon canning industry. The Chinese 15 population in Washington also grew when construction of the Northern 16 Pacific Railroad transcontinental line began in 1871, which ran from 17 Wisconsin and Minnesota to Washington and Oregon, as many laborers
18 who were recruited to work on the railroad were Chinese.

19 The legislature also finds that designating January of each year 20 as a time to recognize the contributions of Chinese Americans is 21 relevant in acknowledging the contributions of notable early Chinese

1 settlers. Goon Dip was well known as a visionary, philanthropist, and 2 entrepreneur, and is said to be the most influential Chinese
3 immigrant in the Pacific Coast during the early 20th century. Goon
4 Dip created a garment industry in Portland, Oregon where he taught 5 Chinese men who were disabled and unable to perform manual labor how 6 to sew. Goon Dip later expanded his business ventures to Seattle when 7 in January 1909, the Chinese government appointed him as honorary
8 consul for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, Washington's first 9 world's fair, held in Seattle. Anticipating large crowds for the 10 fair, Goon Dip built the Milwaukee Hotel at 662 King Street, which 11 would house hundreds of tourists. Goon Dip was also influential in 12 persuading Chinese businessmen to move Chinatown away from the 13 Elliott Bay tidelands to the area around the new King Street Station
14 at 2nd Avenue and Jackson Street. After his role as honorary consul
15 during the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, Goon Dip was named 16 permanent consul and served under both the Manchu dynasty and the 17 Kuomintang. Goon Dip died on September 12, 1933, at the Milwaukee 18 Hotel and is buried in the family plot in Lake View cemetery in 19 Seattle. January is also the birth month of notable contemporary 20 Chinese Americans in the state, including Gary Locke, who graduated 21 from Seattle's Franklin High School and was the first Chinese 22 American elected as Governor in the continental United States, the 23 first Chinese American Secretary of Commerce, and the first Chinese 24 American ambassador to China.

25 The legislature finds that these and other contributions to the 26 state's rich history and economy by Chinese Americans is worthy of 27 recognition and celebration. The legislature further finds that 28 teaching this history in schools will help to commemorate the 29 important achievements of Chinese Americans.

30 NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 43.117
31 RCW to read as follows:

32 (1) With the rise of economic opportunity in America and other
33 parts of the world in the 19th century, the Chinese diaspora is now 34 one of the largest in the world. As a result, many of those who are,
35 or whose ancestors were, part of the Chinese diaspora have varied 36 perspectives, experiences, and approaches in how they preserve their 37 identity as Chinese Americans and Americans of Chinese descent.

38 (2) January of each year will be designated as a time for people
39 of this state to commemorate the contributions of Chinese Americans

1 and Americans of Chinese descent to the history and heritage of 2 Washington state and shall be designated as Chinese American/
3 Americans of Chinese descent history month.

4 (3) Public schools are encouraged to designate time in January
5 for appropriate activities in commemoration of the lives, history, 6 achievements, and contributions of Chinese Americans and Americans of 7 Chinese descent.
