Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill establishes initial training requirements for guardians. Under the bill, every proposed guardian of the person must complete training on all of the following topics: 1) the duties and required responsibilities of a guardian under the law and limits of a guardian's decision-making authority; 2) alternatives to guardianship, including supported decision-making and powers of attorney; 3) rights retained by a ward; 4) best practices for a guardian to solicit and understand the wishes and preferences of a ward, involving a ward in decision-making, and taking a ward's wishes and preferences into account in decisions made by the guardian; 5) restoration of a ward's rights and the process for removal of guardianship; 6) future planning and identification of a potential standby or successor guardian; and 7) resources and technical support for guardians. The bill also requires that every proposed guardian of the estate complete training on the duties and responsibilities of a guardian under the law and limits of a guardian's decision-making authority and inventory and accounting requirements. The bill provides limited exemptions to these training requirements for certain corporate guardians, volunteer guardians, and guardians of minors.

ASSEMBLY BILL 100

Under the bill, a proposed guardian of the person or the estate must submit, prior to permanent guardianship being granted, a sworn and notarized statement to the court that the person has completed the training requirements.

The bill requires the Department of Health Services to award a grant to administer and conduct the required guardian training. DHS must require, in the request for proposal, that the grantee have expertise in state guardianship law, experience with technical assistance and support to guardians and wards, and knowledge of common challenges and questions encountered by guardians and wards. In addition, the grantee selected to develop training shall develop plain language, web-based online training modules using adult-learning design principles that can be accessed for free by training topic and in formats that maximize accessibility, with printed versions available for free upon request.
