Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, private local attorneys appointed by the Public Defender Board to represent clients are paid $40 per hour for time spent related to a case. Under the bill, these attorneys would be paid $55, $60, or $70 per hour, based upon the case type, for time spent related to a case.

Under current law, the board may promulgate rules to assure that representation of indigent clients by the private bar is at the same level as the representation provided by the state public defender. Under the bill, the board's authority to promulgate rules is expanded to include setting standards for and imposing conditions upon private bar attorney certification, decertification, or recertification to represent clients. The bill also adds the following list of reasons as grounds for which the office of the state public defender may exclude a private bar attorney from a public defender list: 1) the attorney has failed to meet minimum attorney performance standards adopted by the state public defender; 2) the attorney has failed to comply with the supreme court rules of professional conduct for attorneys; 3) the attorney has engaged in conduct that is contrary to the interests of clients, the interests of justice, or the interests of the state public defender; or 4) the state public defender learns of any information that raises a concern about the attorney's character, performance, ability, or behavior.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
