2 (11) and 71.54 (2s) of the statutes; relating to: a tax credit for certain property
3 tax increases and making an appropriation.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill creates a refundable individual income tax credit for an increase in the property taxes that a person who has reached age 65 pays for a primary residence owned in this state. The credit amount is calculated as the difference between the property taxes levied on the claimant's primary residence in the year to which the claim relates and those property taxes in the base year.

Under the bill, the "base year" is the most recent of either of the following years: 1) if a claimant has not moved to a different primary residence after first claiming the credit, the year immediately before the year in which the claimant first claimed the credit or 2) if a claimant moves to a different primary residence after first claiming the credit, the first year for which property taxes are levied on that different primary residence for the claimant. To claim the credit, the claimant must have paid the property taxes that are the basis of the calculation. The maximum credit for a taxable year allowed under the bill is $500.

Because the credit is refundable, if the amount of the claim for which a claimant is eligible exceeds the claimant's tax liability, the difference will be paid to the claimant by check.
