Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, with limited exceptions, no sign, except a sign that is necessary for the guidance or warning of traffic, may be placed within the limits of any highway. A person who violates this prohibition must be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100 for a first violation and not less than $10 nor more than $500 for a subsequent violation.

Under a different provision of current law, with limited exceptions, a person may not erect, or cause to be erected, any advertising, guide, or warning sign within a highway that is outside a city or village and is 1,000 feet or less from an intersection with another highway. A person who violates this prohibition must be fined not less than $25 nor more than $100 or imprisoned in the county jail for not more than 30 days or both.

This bill prohibits, with exceptions, a business entity from placing, or causing to be placed, within a highway right-of-way any sign that advertises or promotes a business identified on the sign or a business whose telephone number appears on the sign. If a sign has been placed in violation of this prohibition and the business identified on the sign or whose telephone number appears on the sign had the sign made, there is a rebuttable presumption that this business caused the sign to be placed. A business entity that violates this prohibition is subject to a civil forfeiture of not more than $50 for each sign.
